botulinum toxin type A (BoNT-A)

BoNT-A is injected into specific muscles that cause skin wrinkling. The BoNT-A blocks acetylcholine so the muscle will no longer contract. This lessens the dynamic (movement) wrinkles and the static (rested) wrinkles. As the product wears off the muscles begin to move again.

microneedling by MDPen

Fine needles are used to create micro injuries in the skin. The skin reacts by stimulating growth factors and collagen production to the injured skin. The result is improved skin texture, smoother appearance and decreased fine lines.

A numbing cream is applied prior to the procedure for comfort. Serums used during the procedure can penetrate the micro channels. There is minimal down time. You'll look a little 'pink,' like a sunburn.
